Headline:
Dry with bright or sunny spells once patchy fog clears.

Today:
Early fog patches slowly lifting, but locally lingering until around lunchtime in places. Otherwise the rest of the region will have a dry day with sunny spells breaking through. Feeling a touch cooler than of late despite light winds. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
A mixture of cloud and clear spells this evening with mist and fog patches forming through the early hours. Becoming chilly in places. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Monday:
Mist and fog slowly lifting in the south. Light rain and drizzle arriving in Cumbria during the morning, before slowly edging south across the rest of the region later. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Damp and murky with drizzle at first on Tuesday, but slowly brightening up. Bright and breezy on Wednesday with sunny spells and a few showers. Turning cloudier again on Thursday.
